

Six Twelve Creative is a passionate, sincere and dedicated creative agency that is focused on what's best for our clients.

Whether looking for help with a single project or partnering on a long-term plan, Six Twelve is committed to creating world-class work. We love fresh challenges and our team has a wide variety of talent and strengths, which allow us to be successful in new arenas the first time out. We love to jump right in and get going, which our clients appreciate as time is money and their time is important. We like to say we tackle everything with a Bing, a Bang, and a Boom!

We do market research, examine your particular goals, and engage with you in the process—you decide your level of involvement! Rather than seeing your challenges in a negative light, we see them as opportunities for forward-thinking, growth, and freshness. Our considerable imagination and experience is at your disposal.

Our creative approach is organic and varies as widely as the projects we work on. We explore the research and numbers, but do not let their dryness stunt our creativity. The best solutions can come out of deliberate planning and experience, happy accidents, or left field—our eyes are always open for the best. As a team with varied specialties, we excel at distilling creative ideas into specifically tailored solutions.

We aren't just about making things look fantastic though that is an inevitable outcome—it is the results that ultimately count. Our greatest pleasure is in seeing your expectations blown away! Your success is our primary goal, and we take the responsibility very seriously.

A LITTLE ABOUT US

Cornerstones of our company are “good design makes good sense,” and “a commitment to service is just good business.” By valuing and building relationships for the long term, two of Six Twelve's largest clients, Sauder Group of Companies and Overwaitea Food Group, have been with us for over a decade.

New opportunities in web design, online games, 3D illustration and social media have driven us to continually expand the products and services we offer, and consistently deliver cutting edge design and marketing solutions.
